An appropriation of at least $ 250 00 should be made for school supplies to meet the full wants of our schools during the coming year.

The appropriation for the past year ($150 00) did not allow the purchase of covers for books, or the furnishing as many text books as could have been used to advantage. It is desirable that all the books should be covered when they are given out. The covers can then be changed as they are soiled; the books kept tolerably clean and passed from one scholar to another in far better condition than if left uncovered. There have been nine different schools taught by the same number of teachers. School No. 4 has been discontinued as there was not a single scholar within the bounds of the old district. Everything is in readiness for a school there whenever there shall be scholars. Mr. E. R. Spaulding having resigned his position on the School Board, Mr. C. L. Rich was chosen to take his place. Mr. Joseph H. Spofford has been appointed truant officer.

Mrs. A. P. Chamberlain, of Concord, Mass., a lady who has paid much attention to industrial training in education, has interested herself especially in having sewing introduced into our schools. Through her kindness material has been placed in the hands of the School Board for this purpose, and wherever it seemed such material could be used to advantage it has been given to the pupils. No doubt more can be done in this way than has yet been accomplished.

There were 255 different scholars in school, an increase of 26 over that of the previous year. There was also a commendable increase in regularity of attendance; taking all the schools into account No. 5 again leads in this respect; the names of 10 out of 14 of its pupils being on the roll of perfect attendance. Of the 255 different scholars in school during the year 131, more than one-half, were in the schools at the East

Village. Add to this the fact the Conant School was in the same building with our common schools, and the need of more school room at East Jaffrey must be evident to any one. The School Board respectfully suggest that the time has come for a primary, intermediate and grammar department there. Enough has already been done in the way of grading and classifying to show what may be expected when there shall be ample accommodation for all the pupils.

The regularity of attendance, during the year now closing, has done much towards making the schools more efficient than in some past years. Not all the pupils however have been as regular as they might. A little thought and care on the part of some parents and scholars would have taken a good many absent marks from the registers. Is it too much to hope that the time will soon come when nothing short of illness will keep pupils from school? What so many scholars have done this year, let all do next year, be neither absent or tardy unless so sick as not to be able to go out doors.

But it is to be remembered a scholar has not done all he ought to do when he is simply regular in his attendance at school. He is to be at school for a purpose, and that purpose is to be a good scholar and learn.

The work of learning must be done by the scholar himself. The teacher at best can only assist the pupil. "All the varied helps of home, school and nature are but helps which the child must use. Like crutches they are available only to him who has purpose and physical strength to handle them. The school, with all its aids, is but an opportunity, valuable only in proportion as the pupil makes use of it. The teacher may do much for him by a wise and persistent scheme of training, so that each and all of his powers may be developed. But this can be done only by the pupil's consent and hearty cooperation."

We need not only good teachers but good scholars as well. And the good scholar is the one who is well trained at home, taught to respect and obey his teacher.

Every parent does much towards helping or hindering the efficiency of our schools by the influence he exerts over his children.

Send well trained scholars to school properly instructed as to their duty, and the teacher has obedient, teachable pupils. As has been well said: "The child's first teacher is the mother; his first school, the nursery. The atmosphere of the home life is a most potent factor in molding the child's character. All of our youths must graduate from the home into the school, where their career will be largely determined by the influence of the home."

It should be the object of all concerned to make our schools the best possible. To this end the town should be liberal in furnishing suitable school buildings; parents should cooperate with teachers by properly training their children at home, seeing they are regular in attendance at school, visiting the schools and learning for themselves the work done. In this way the aim of education, which is to give to the pupil all the perfection of which he is capable, may be secured
